

I have not been to any rodeos before this, and I don't know how to tie a lasso. I didn't bring a lasso—is one provided? I am unfamiliar with the rules of rodeos and I need to know where the bathroom is. If I get knocked out in the first round am I out out, or is there like, a second bracket? Can you tell me the name of that bull? Has anyone ever died here, and is my mom allowed free entry? Do you guys have any vending machines? I am hungry and a little bit scared. What is included with the admission price? I'm specifically wondering if I get a hat with my entry. What are the costuming requirements? Again, I'm a novice. I have a lot of questions. What do you guys do here when there's not a rodeo happening? What's it called when the bronco gets up on its hind legs like that? Am I able to be sponsored by an outside entity, such as Pepsi? I listened to that Garth Brooks song a couple of times—do you think it will help with my performance? I don't know what a latigo is. What is the consumer demographic of a typical rodeo? Where is the gift shop? I'm interested to know about your first aid practices. Where can I smoke indoors? Can I smoke while I'm riding the bull? Are there snacks, and do you test for barbiturates? How come all these bulls are so angry—like, it seems like they aren't super fond of people riding on their backs. Have you ever seen a head crushed in?
